

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are illiterate has increased from 1.2 billion to 1.5 billion.

There are many reasons for this. One is that the population of the world is growing so fast that the number of people who are illiterate is increasing.

Another reason is that the quality of education is poor in many countries, so that many people who are enrolled in school are not learning enough to be literate.

There are also many people who are illiterate because they are too poor to go to school, or because they are too busy working to go to school.

There are many other reasons why people are illiterate, but the main reason is that there are not enough schools and teachers in the world to teach everyone to read and write.

It is a very serious problem, and it is one that we must try to solve. If we do not, the world will be a much poorer place.

There are many ways that we can help to solve this problem. One way is to build more schools and hire more teachers.

Another way is to make sure that the quality of education is good, so that people who go to school are actually learning.

There are many other ways that we can help, but the most important thing is that we must all do our part to make sure that everyone has the chance to learn to read and write.

It is not an easy task, but it is one that is worth doing. If we can help to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world, we can make the world a much better place.

There are many people who are working hard to solve this problem, and we can all help them. Let's all do our part to make sure that everyone has the chance to learn to read and write.

It is a long and difficult road, but it is one that we must travel if we want to make the world a better place. Let's all do our part to make sure that everyone has the chance to learn to read and write.
